

At 12:30 on Sunday, July 21st, members of the congregation of the First Unitarian Universalists of San Francisco, in a time that calls for bold resistance, will take to the streets at Franklin and Geary. Through visuals, words and drama we will make our concerns public as we call upon all people of conscience to persist, intensify and broaden our efforts to make real the growing cry: Never Again is Now! Close the Camps! We do so . .

Because a society that turns its back on people in dire need, is not a society worth living in.

And

Because there is no good future for humanity in a world that allows moral barbarism to prevail.
